According to the telegram from Shanghai, to which we recently gave publicity, the absurd scheme for presenting a model railway to the EMPEROR OF CHINA has come to even a more speedy end than was imagined would be the case. His Colestial Majesty politely declines the profered wift-"timet Danges the Duke of Sutherland and his friends age of an Eastern potentate.

It may be presumed that the grounds of refusal will prove to be of a merely format nature-some point of etiquette or other like ground-as the Chinese are far too astate diplomatists to make a serious affair out of a comparatively small one, and will doubtless treat the affair with the casy good humour with | defendant. which thorough Aristocrats are wont to treat the little indiscretions of gentlemen whom they look upon as very good people, but unfortimately not so well bred as might be. Such grounds will be quite unexceptionable, and all that is left to the projectors of the scheme is to take their snub with as good a grace as they can. It cannot be denied that the turned against those who proposed to present wish that the case should go to the Supreme so ill-chosen a gift to the EMPEROR OF Court.

Some good, however, will be produced by the circumstance. The matter has of course attained considerable notoriety at home, and the outturn of it cannot full to convey to a large number of people a very definite idea, both of the obstructiveness and the diplomatic talent, of the Chinese, In- by virtue of a warrant as he was leaving the stead of finding them, as they evidently expected, a people accidentally walking in dark- the property of Mr. J. In an indirect manner, therefore, the presoutation railway scheme will be productive of some good, and will be one step in the direction in which progress is so much wanted at the present time, namely, that THE interest and responsibility of the late making people at home acquainted with the true state of affairs in these parts. ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY

WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese DictionAny, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

MOR comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in calenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming erercises for students of a most instructive nature given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of apace, achieving a clearness not vast margins and vacant spaces which have peretofore characterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration, Chalmers' Vocabularly contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English Orders for Copies may be sent to the D and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst Press Office, or to the following Agents: this work contains more than 50,000 English Macao ......
